The Organization and Purpose of College Honor Societies

THE ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGE HONOR SOCIETIES was organized by a group of college and university teachers of a few well-established honor societies to consider problems of mutual interest and to bring to the attention of the college community the situation prevailing on college campuses concerning standards of membership, multiplicity, and undue duplication, to recommend action leading to appropriate standards of membership, consolidation, and reduction of the reasonable cost of membership, consolidation, and reduction of the highest interests of honor societies.

This movement, started by Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha, has grown through the years to become a national organization of usefulness among college honor societies. The movement since 1900 has been rapid and varied. Many societies, while a number have expanded to other countries, have been recognized as national in scope. Their number has increased, duplication, low standards, and competition among students, faculty members and administrators have been with this situation in view that the

There were six initial honor societies in 1900: Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, in scientific research; Tau Kappa Omega, in all academic fields of university science; Phi Kappa Phi, in all academic fields of university science; and the Order of the Coif, in law.

Provision was made for responsibility to the members of each society. It consists of an official representative of each member society for meetings, admission of other societies to membership, admission fees and annual dues, and for nominations.

The problem faced by higher education in maintaining high standards in college honor societies in all fields and all categories of Greek letter organizations and conferences in the general social and professional fields by means of improving conditions. Educational progress was slow and operating. While progress was slow and of the ACHS, great progress has been made in the action of college administrators and faculty members, major societies and fraternities and their cooperation in the problem requires such a co-operation.

The objective of the ACHS now is to bring the college honor societies to join forces for the establishment of high standards and useful functions in higher education. The ACHS invites qualified societies to affiliate with the ACHS and the standards will be helped in every way.

The Organization and Purpose of the Association of College Honor Societies

THE ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGE HONOR SOCIETIES was organized October 2, 1925, by a group of college and university teachers, administrators, and representatives of a few well-established honor societies. Its object was then and is now to consider problems of mutual interest such as those arising from the confusion prevailing on college campuses concerning the character, function, standards of membership, multiplicity, and undesirable duplication of honor societies; to recommend action leading to appropriate classification, higher standards, reasonable cost of membership, consolidation or elimination; and to promote the highest interests of honor societies.

This movement, started by Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and Alpha Omega Alpha, has grown through the years to bring about greater responsibility and usefulness among college honor societies. The growth of the honor society idea since 1900 has been rapid and varied. Many groups are of local significance only, while a number have expanded to other colleges and universities and seek to be recognized as national in scope. Their multiplicity, and in many cases their duplication, low standards, and competition, presents a burdensome problem to students, faculty members and administrators, and to college life generally. It was with this situation in view that the ACHS was organized.

There were six initial honor societies in the ACHS: Phi Beta Kappa, in liberal arts; Sigma Xi, in scientific research; Tau Beta Pi, in engineering; Phi Kappa Phi, in all academic fields of university scope; Alpha Omega Alpha, in medicine; and the Order of the Coif, in law.

Provision was made for responsibility to be lodged in the Council which consists of an official representative of each member society. Provision was made also for meetings, admission of other societies found to have proper qualifications, for admission fees and annual dues, and for needed studies, reports and recommendations.

The problem faced by higher education and by the ACHS of developing and maintaining high standards in college honor societies covers the whole college field and all categories of Greek letter organizations. Individual associations and conferences in the general social and professional fields are also studying ways and means of improving conditions. Educational associations and councils are co-operating. While progress was slow and difficult at times during the early history of the ACHS, great progress has been made during the past ten years by joint action of college administrators and faculty members and representatives of the major societies and fraternities and their respective associations. The real solution of the problem requires such a co-operative combination of forces.

The objective of the ACHS now is to encourage all general and departmental honor societies to join forces for the establishment and maintenance of desirable standards and useful functions in higher education, and for the achievement of appropriate recognition of member societies of the Council of ACHS. To this end, the ACHS invites qualified societies to affiliate with it. Societies which do not meet the standards will be helped in every way possible to come up to them. Special attention is called to the Constitution and By-Laws of the ACHS and to their statements of definitions, standards, and requirements for membership and functions of honor societies

Progress toward achieving the present objective of ACHS is found in two specific developments occurring in 1963. The first of these is that two established sources of information concerning Greek letter organizations (The WORLD Almanac and BAIRD'S MANUAL) have sought and gained editorial assistance in the problem of classifying the numerous societies which are in existence, and have accepted the distinctions sketched on pages 8 and 9 of this booklet as the basis for classification. This extension of common categories is an instance of cooperation toward the goal of maintaining standards for honor societies.

The second development took place in quite a different direction, but was closely related to the question of honor society standards. In a letter dated June 7, 1963, the Director of the Bureau of Recruiting and Examination of the United States Civil Service Commission informed the ACHS that "Recently the Commission adopted a new qualification standard for Federal positions whereby a bachelor's degree holder or candidate can qualify for grade GS-7 which begins at $5540 a year, rather than for GS-5 which begins at $4565 a year, if the applicant has been elected to membership in a college honor society meeting the minimum requirements of your Association." This affords a very tangible acknowledgment that organizations maintaining honor society standards merit distinction.

The job is not completed, but these are signs of achievement.

The Honor Society in American Colleges

THE IDEA which underlies the honor societies in American colleges and universities is threefold. They exist primarily to recognize the attainment of scholarship of a superior quality. In the second place, a few societies recognize the development of leadership qualities, character and good campus citizenship in addition to a strong secondary scholarship record. In the third place, and to the degree that they make this recognition a thing to be coveted, they encourage the production of superior scholarship and leadership.

To accomplish these objectives, it is clear that an honor society must define and maintain a truly high standard of eligibility for membership and achieve sufficient status by so doing that membership becomes something to be valued highly. The second point is greatly advanced if the significance of membership is appreciated over a wide area; thus, the society with a number of chapters at accredited institutions is stronger than one which is purely local, and the society which is known and admired outside the college world as well as on the campus may be regarded as having achieved maturity and success.

The honor society has followed the expansion and specialization of higher education in America. When Phi Beta Kappa was organized in 1776 there was no

In a letter dated June 1900, Recruiting and Examination of the members formed the ACHS that "Recently the standard for Federal positions whereby one must qualify for grade GS-7 which begins at $4565 a year, if the applicant is a college honor society meeting the requirements." ansion and specialization of higher education was organized in 1776 there was no thought given to its proper "field," since all colleges then in existence were for the training of men for "the service of the church and the state." With the expansion of education into new fields, a choice had to be made, and Phi Beta Kappa elected at the end of the first half century of its existence to operate in the field of the liberal arts and sciences. Although this was not finally voted until 1898, the trend was evident some years earlier, and the '80's saw the establishment of Tau Beta Pi in the field of engineering and Sigma Xi in scientific research.

In the early years of the 20th century, other honor societies came into being. One of these, Phi Kappa Phi, was started by the presidents of three state universities, with the thought that these institutions should have their honor society; later, its field was wisely extended to include any institution of university scope, accepting into membership superior students of all schools or colleges of which they are a part. More recently another scholarship honor society covering all academic fields, Alpha Chi, was organized. With these exceptions, and with the exception of Alpha Kappa Mu which had its origin in Negro colleges and universities, scholarship honor societies have followed the earlier tradition of selecting a specific field of coverage. Thus, Alpha Omega Alpha elects in the field of medicine, Delta Mu Delta in business administration, Pi Kappa Lambda in music, Rho Chi in pharmacy, Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Tau in engineering.

Three interesting and important variations have developed since 1900. One of these recognizes the values of extracurricular activities and the development of general campus citizenship, and its prime requisite for election is meritorious attainments in all-round leadership in college life. In this field, Omicron Delta Kappa, for men, and Mortar Board, for women, have achieved excellent reputations. It is to be noted that both have a strong secondary requirement of scholarship.

A second variation is represented by the numerous societies which draw their membership from the various departments of study, recognizing chiefly good work in the field of the student's major interest or special field of study. These societies are generally known as departmental honor societies and are represented by such societies as Sigma Pi Sigma, in physics; Alpha Epsilon Delta, in premedicine; Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha in speech and forensics; Phi Alpha Theta, in history; Eta Kappa Nu, in electrical engineering; Pi Tau Sigma, in mechanical engineering; Tau Sigma Delta, in architecture and allied arts; Pi Sigma Alpha, in political science; Phi Sigma, in the biological sciences; Phi Sigma Iota, in romance languages; Alpha Pi Mu, in industrial engineering; Pi Gamma Mu, in social science; Chi Epsilon, in civil engineering; Kappa Tau Alpha, in journalism; Phi Sigma Tau, in philosophy; Sigma Theta Tau, in nursing; Beta Kappa Chi in Natural Sciences and mathematics, Delta Phi Delta in art, and National Collegiate Players in theatre and drama.

The third variation recognizes scholastic achievement during the freshman year and encourages its members toward higher goals. This field of freshman scholarship honor societies is represented by Phi Eta Sigma, for men, and Alpha Lambda Delta, for women.

College Fraternities and Societies Defined

THE FOLLOWING statements defining college professional and social fraternities and honor and recognition societies with their basic purposes, standards and membership requirements have been issued by the respective groups for distribution to faculty and administration members and advisers, student leaders and fraternal officers in general.

Honor Societies

AN HONOR SOCIETY is an association of primarily collegiate members and chapters whose purposes are to encourage and recognize superior scholarship and/or leadership achievement either in broad fields of education or in departmental fields at either undergraduate or graduate levels. Basic standards and requirements for membership include the following:

1. General honor societies which base membership eligibility primarily upon the attainment of high scholarship in a broad field of study shall elect members from the highest 20 per cent of the class in scholarship.
2. General honor societies which base membership eligibility primarily upon all-round leadership attainment in student affairs shall elect from the entire institution honor graduates from the highest 35 per cent of the class in scholarship.
3. Departmental honor societies which elect persons actively interested in a specific field shall elect from the upper 35 per cent of the class in scholarship.
4. Election to membership shall be irrespective of membership in or affiliation with other organizations and associations.
5. Membership shall be conferred solely on the basis of character and specified eligibility.
6. No solicitation or propaganda, such as rushing and social pressure, shall be used to insure acceptance of invitation to membership.
7. Collegiate chapters of member ACHS societies shall be established only in four-year or more degree-granting colleges and universities that are accredited by the appropriate regional accrediting agency.—Association of College Honor Societies

Recognition Societies

A RECOGNITION SOCIETY is an organization which confers membership in recognition of a student's interest and participation in some field of collegiate study or activity with more liberal membership requirements than are prescribed for general and departmental honor societies.—Association of College Honor Societies

General Social Fraternities

Men's College General Fraternities are self-perpetuating groups consisting of undergraduate and graduate members. The undergraduate members generally live together in owned or rented houses or in dormitory areas set aside for them. Their programs have the objective of developing the leadership qualities, manners and scholastic performance of the members as well as encouraging their participation in extra-curricular activities. Most fraternity chapters in accredited colleges are members of "national" fraternities and these are associated together in the National Interfraternity Conference.

Women's Social Greek letter fraternities and Conference are primarily groups of friends of colleges and universities, but which in addition are committed to cooperation with college authorities, maintain high scholastic standards and which do not limit membership to a school of a college or university.—National

Professional Fraternities

A professional fraternity is a specialized organization offering membership to a specific field of professional education in colleges and universities offering courses leading to recognition in that field. It maintains mutually exclusive membership in that field from the general social fraternities; and which organizes programs to promote professional competency and achievement. A professional fraternity confines its membership to students (and sometimes faculty members) in a particular profession or field of study. Its curriculum leading to a professional degree in that field. It requires a careful investigation and generally by a unanimous vote of its members early in their professional college career. It meets actively and beneficially in the professional and social affairs of its members, conducts professional and social activities, maintains a chapter house or quarters. Professional fraternities have a special value to alumni members.—Professional Fraternities

Professional Fraternity—a specialized fraternity offering membership to a specific field of professional education in colleges and universities; maintains mutually-exclusive membership in that field from the general social fraternities; may initiate members of the social college life specifically to promote professional competence in that field.—Professional Panhellenic Conference.

Professional Fraternities

A professional fraternity is a specialized fraternity which limits its student membership to a specific field of professional education in accredited colleges and universities offering courses leading to recognized degrees therein; which maintains mutually exclusive membership in that field, but may initiate members of the general social fraternities; and which organizes its group life specifically to promote professional competency and achievement within its field. The professional fraternity confines its membership to qualified male students (and faculty members) in a particular profession who are pursuing an organized curriculum leading to a professional degree in that field, has a minimum scholastic requirement for membership usually above passing, elects its members after a careful investigation and generally by a unanimous secret ballot. It initiates its members early in their professional college life, enabling them to participate actively and beneficially in the professional aims of the fraternity, holds frequent meetings, conducts professional and social activities, and frequently maintains a chapter house or quarters. Professional fraternities also sponsor programs of special value to alumni members.—Professional Interfraternity Conference.

STANDING COMMITTEES AND THEIR FUNCTIONS

Association of College Honor Societies

(Adopted February 27, 1954)

1. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: The Committee shall select the time and place and arrange the order of business and program for the annual meeting of the Council. It shall administer the policies, programs and activities of the Association as formulated by the Council.

2. PROGRAM COMMITTEE: The Committee shall prepare the agenda for the annual meeting and shall select a suitable speaker for the dinner meeting of the Council.

3. COMMITTEE ON STANDARDS AND DEFINITIONS: The Committee shall study the purposes, field, functions and scope of member societies with the view of formulating and recommending principles to guide and direct the Council in its work. It shall define honor societies and recognition societies which are organized or seek to be organized. The Committee shall also examine and report periodically on the Constitutions and By-Laws of member societies with respect to ACHS standards, such as membership requirements and practices, procedures and operation for the information of Council representatives.

4. COMMITTEE ON ELIGIBILITY AND ADMISSIONS: The Committee shall review information available concerning the objectives and activities of various student organizations which may be regarded as honor societies. On the basis of information obtainable, the Committee shall attempt to determine the eligibility of such societies for admission into the ACHS. The Committee shall engage in correspondence with various student organizations to inform them concerning the ACHS and to determine whether such groups are interested in eventual affiliation with the Association. When a petition is received from a society wishing to join the Association, the qualifications of the petitioning society shall be examined by the Committee and recommendations made to the Executive Committee and the Council of the ACHS.

5. COMMITTEE ON PUBLICATIONS AND INFORMATION: The Committee shall obtain favorable publicity on the annual meeting of the Association by distributing news releases to representatives of member societies and to the press along with appropriate photographs, where possible, of the significant activities and highlights of the meeting, including summaries and quotations from any significant talks or addresses (newspapers, educational and general magazines). In addition, the Committee shall be responsible for collecting the necessary information, editing, and supervising the publication and distribution of the ACHS Booklet of Information as authorized by the Council.

6. COMMITTEE ON CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS: The Committee shall study the resolutions referred to it by the Council and shall implement them by presenting a suitably worded statement of the substance of the resolution with due regard to the consistency of such resolutions with other Articles and Sections of the Constitution and By-Laws then in force. It shall recommend the proper Articles and Section or Sections to be amended and shall make other recommendations for changes which may be made necessary by the adoption by the Council of the proposed amendments. It shall receive and study proposals for changes in the Constitution and By-Laws if and when submitted by individual members of the Council or Committees of the Council. If in its judgment the proposal is of sufficient significance, and/or urgency, the Committee on Constitution and By-Laws may prepare a suitably worded amendment for submission to the Council according to the provisions of the Constitution and By-Laws in force at that time.

7. COMMITTEE ON TAXATION: The Committee shall keep abreast of developments in the relationship between the Honor Societies and tax regulations. It shall bring to the attention of member honor societies any tax suggestions that will be of benefit to the societies.

CONSTITUTION

Association of College Honor Societies (Adopted and as amended through February 27, 1965.)

ARTICLE I—NAME

SECTION 1. The name of the Association shall be: The Association of College Honor Societies.

ARTICLE II—PURPOSES

SECTION 1. The purposes of the Association shall be:

- a. To act as the coordinating agency for college and university honor societies, as hereinafter provided;
- b. To provide facilities for the consideration of matters of mutual interest, such as administrative problems, establishment and maintenance of scholastic and other standards, membership costs, functions of honor societies, and prevention of undesirable duplication and competition among honor societies;
- c. To define honor societies of the several types and to classify existing societies into their proper categories under these definitions;
- d. To cooperate with college and university faculties and administrative officers in developing and maintaining high standards and useful functions within honor societies which are organized or seek to be organized;
- e. To collect, publish and distribute information and data of value to honor societies, colleges and universities and publishers of directories and journals.

ARTICLE III—MEMBERSHIP

SECTION 1. The Association of College Honor Societies shall consist of such national (or international) honor societies as meet the standards as hereinafter defined. In general these societies shall require for membership superior scholarship and/or leadership achievement either in broad fields of education or in departmental fields at either undergraduate or graduate levels.

SECTION 2. There shall be two classes of member societies: first, active voting member societies which meet all requirements for membership in the Association; and second, associate non-voting member societies which do not meet the requirements of age or size but meet all other membership requirements.

ARTICLE IV—COUNCIL

SECTION 1. There shall be a Council to consist of one representative, preferably an executive, from each active voting member society. This person shall be chosen by his society to serve for one year, or until his successor is elected. In addition, there shall be elected by the Council three members at large to serve for one year.

SECTION 2. It shall be the duty of the Council to investigate and determine all matters in regard to qualifications for representation in the Association. Any charges or complaints regarding a constituent society may be submitted by any member of the Council, and when so submitted, shall be investigated by the Council. For the election of a society to representation in the Association, or for suspension, or for expulsion, an affirmative vote of four-fifths of the official Council members present shall be required. Election, suspension, or expulsion, may take place at any regularly called meeting of the Council.

SECTION 3. The Council shall meet annually at a time and place to be selected by the Executive Committee.

SECTION 4. A quorum for the transaction of business at Council meetings shall be official representatives from two-thirds of the societies which hold membership in the Association.

SECTION 5. The Council may, at its discretion, invite to its sessions representatives of other organizations, such representatives to have the liberty of the floor, but without vote. All meetings are at the call of the President, or on written request of any three members.

SECTION 6. The order of business and program at the annual Council meeting shall be arranged by the Executive Committee.

ARTICLE V—OFFICERS

SECTION 1. The officers of this Association shall be (a) President, (b) Vice-President, and (c) Secretary-Treasurer, to be chosen by the Council from its own membership to serve for two years, or until their successors are elected. At the discretion of the Council, the post of Secretary-Treasurer may be separated into those of Secretary and Treasurer, each of whom shall perform the duties incident to those offices and have membership on the Executive Committee in the event of such separation.

SECTION 2. There shall be an Executive Committee which shall consist of the President, the Vice-President, the Secretary-Treasurer, the immediate Past-President, and two members elected from the Council, one member from the general honor society group and one member from the departmental honor society group. In the initial election, after the adoption of this section, these members shall be elected to the Executive Committee for a term of one year and thereafter for a term of two years. Each elected member shall serve until a successor shall be elected. The Executive Committee shall meet regularly at the time and the place of each annual meeting of the Council, and at such special meetings as a majority of its members shall deem necessary and proper. The expense of attendance of these persons at special meetings of the Executive Committee shall be met from the Association's treasury.

ARTICLE VI—AMENDMENTS

SECTION 1. This Constitution may be amended by a four-fifths vote of the societies represented at any regularly called meeting of the Council provided notice of the proposed amendment is sent out with the call for the meeting at least 30 days prior to the meeting.

BY-LAWS

Association of College Honor Societies

(Adopted and as amended through February 27, 1965.)

ARTICLE I—DEFINITIONS AND CLASSIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. HONOR SOCIETY. An honor society is an association of primarily collegiate chapters whose purposes are to recognize and encourage high scholarship and/or leadership achievement in some broad or departmental field of education.

SECTION 2. Societies which are members of the Association shall be classified as:

- a. General Honor Societies
- b. Departmental Honor Societies

SECTION 3. GENERAL HONOR SOCIETIES. A general honor society is one which receives into membership individuals from one or all schools and colleges of an institution who have achieved high scholarship and who fulfill such additional requirements of distinction in some broad field of education, research and culture or in general leadership as the society has established. A broad field of education is one in which a systematic development of the mind and cultural values are acquired through instruction, training, example, and experience. Typical of such broad fields of education are the following:

Agriculture	Education	Law	Pharmacy
Business Admin.	Engineering	Liberal Arts	Scientific Research
(Commerce)	Fine Arts	Medicine	Theology
Dentistry	Home Economics	Music	Veterinary Med.

SECTION 4. DEPARTMENTAL HONOR SOCIETIES. A departmental honor society is one which receives into membership individuals from one or all schools and colleges of an institution who have achieved high scholarship and/or leadership achievement within a given department of education. Typical of these are:

Architecture	Electrical Engineering
Art	Forensics
Biological Sciences	History
Chemistry	Industrial Engineering

SECTION 5. RECOGNITION SOCIETIES. A recognition society is one which receives into membership individuals from one or all schools and colleges of an institution who have achieved high scholarship and/or leadership achievement in some broad or departmental field of education. Recognition societies are not eligible for membership in the Association of College Honor Societies.

ARTICLE II—STANDARDS

For membership in the Association, the following are the minimal standards:

SECTION 1. Election to membership shall be by ballot and shall require affiliation with other organizations.

SECTION 2. Membership shall be open to all who meet the specified eligibility.

SECTION 3. No solicitation of membership shall be used to insure acceptance.

SECTION 4. General Honor Societies shall elect undergraduates who rank in the top 20 per cent of their class in scholarship.

SECTION 5. General Honor Societies shall elect undergraduates who rank in the top 20 per cent of their class in scholarship.

SECTION 6. Departmental Honor Societies shall elect undergraduates who rank in the top 35 per cent of their class in scholarship in a specific field; undergraduates who rank in the top 35 per cent of their class in scholarship completed at least three semesters.

SECTION 7. The cumulative average grade point average of the institution where membership is sought shall be at least 2.5, and the institution shall be computing scholastic eligibility for the preceding Sections 4, 5, and 6.

SECTION 8. Election to membership shall be by ballot and shall require affiliation with other organizations.

SECTION 9. An active voting society shall have ten or more chapters in at least five regions in the country.

SECTION 10. An active chapter shall elect a new president at least annually, except in the case of a chapter with fewer than ten members. An inactive chapter shall be dropped after a two-year period. A chapter may be dropped after five years may be dropped if that society.

SECTION 11. A society shall be dropped after ten years before becoming inactive and after five years before being dropped.

SECTION 5. RECOGNITION SOCIETIES. A recognition society is one which confers membership in recognition of a student's interest and participation in some field of collegiate study or activity, with more liberal membership requirements than are prescribed for general and departmental honor societies. Accordingly, recognition societies are not eligible for membership in the Association of College Honor Societies.

ARTICLE II—STANDARDS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR MEMBERSHIP

For membership in the Association, a society shall conform to the following minimal standards:

SECTION 1. Election to membership shall be irrespective of membership in or affiliation with other organizations and associations.

SECTION 2. Membership shall be conferred solely on the basis of character and specified eligibility.

SECTION 3. No solicitation or propaganda, such as rushing and social pressure, shall be used to insure acceptance of invitation to membership.

SECTION 4. General Honor Societies which base eligibility primarily upon scholarship shall elect undergraduates who rank not lower than the highest 20 per cent of their class in scholarship.

SECTION 5. General Honor Societies which base eligibility primarily upon all-round leadership in student affairs shall elect from the entire institution, undergraduates who rank not lower than the highest 35% of their class in scholarship.

SECTION 6. Departmental Honor Societies which elect persons actively interested in a specific field shall elect only those who have demonstrated superior scholarship in this field; undergraduates who are elected shall rank not lower than the highest 35 per cent of their class in general scholarship, and shall have completed at least three semesters or five quarters of the college course.

SECTION 7. The cumulative scholastic record of the student as interpreted by the institution where membership is to be conferred shall be the basis for computing scholastic eligibility for the purpose of classification in rank as specified in the preceding Sections 4, 5, and 6 of this Article.

SECTION 8. Election to membership in general honor societies other than freshman honor societies shall be held not earlier than the fifth semester or the seventh quarter of the college course.

SECTION 9. An active voting member society and an associate non-voting member society shall have ten or more active collegiate chapters located in two or more regions in the country.

SECTION 10. An active chapter shall be one which holds elections to membership at least annually, except in national emergencies, and includes active student members. An inactive chapter shall be one in which no elections have been held during a two-year period. Any chapter which has held no elections for a period of five years may be dropped from the listing of active and inactive chapters of that society.

SECTION 11. A society shall have existed as a national organization for at least ten years before becoming an active voting member of the Association, and for at least five years before becoming an associate non-voting member of the Association.

SECTION 12. The constitution and by-laws of a society shall provide for national conventions or other equivalents at least every three years. At these conventions national officers shall be elected and authority established for ad interim control of the affairs of the society. The convention shall include a properly audited report of national finances covering the period from the immediately preceding convention.

SECTION 13. Each member society of the Association shall furnish the Secretary-Treasurer with a copy of its constitution and by-laws and shall inform him periodically of any amendments thereto. Each member society of the Association shall submit an annual report of his society.

SECTION 14. Admission fees and dues charged by each member society shall not be more than is deemed reasonable by the Council of the Association.

SECTION 15. Collegiate chapters of member societies shall be established, maintained or reactivated only in colleges and universities that grant the baccalaureate or higher degrees and that are accredited by the appropriate national or regional accrediting agency. Such agencies include the New England Association of Colleges, the Middle States Association, the North Central Association, the Southern Association, the Northwest Association, Western College Association, and certain appropriate professional accrediting agencies.

SECTION 16. No member society shall hereafter grant a charter to a chapter in any institution which fails to meet fully the standards and requirements of the Association.

ARTICLE III—ADMISSION FEE AND DUES

SECTION 1. The dues from each constituent organization shall be thirty-five dollars yearly, the fiscal year to begin February 1.

SECTION 2. The admission fee shall be sixty dollars and this fee shall include the first year's dues.

ARTICLE IV—FUNCTIONS OF HONOR SOCIETIES

SECTION 1. The functions of honor societies are not social as in the case of general college fraternities. Social activities of honor societies are incidental, and may obtain occasionally in connection with their major functions.

SECTION 2. The following functions are properly served by an Honor Society:

- a. It confers distinction for high achievement in undergraduate, graduate, and professional studies; in student leadership; and in the various fields of research.
- b. It fosters the spirit of liberal culture.
- c. It stimulates and encourages mental development.
- d. It stands for freedom of mind and spirit and for democracy of learning.
- e. It provides spiritual and intellectual leadership.
- f. It preserves valuable traditions and customs.
- g. It associates outstanding leaders in mutual understanding for the advancement of society in the art of democratic living.
- h. It stimulates worthy attitudes for the improvement of the general welfare of the institution.
- i. It imposes upon members high citizenship responsibilities, and emphasizes deeper study and discussion of the American tradition—its characteristics, ideals, and possibilities.

ARTICLE V—PARLIAMENTARY AUTHORITY

SECTION 1. In all parliamentary situations not herein specified, Sturgis' Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure will obtain.

ARTICLE VI—AMENDMENTS

SECTION 1. These By-Laws may be amended at any annual or special meeting of the Council by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the Council members present, provided that written notice of the proposed changes shall have been mailed by the Secretary-Treasurer to Council members at least thirty days prior to the meeting, or by the affirmative vote of four-fifths of the Council members present if no such notice has been given.

PURPOSE: To encourage sound scholarship and devotion to the truth, not only among its members but among all the students on campuses on which there are chapters. It is opposed to bigotry, narrowness, and discrimination on any basis other than that of genuine worth.

ELIGIBILITY: Active membership is open to the top-ranking ten per cent of members of the junior and senior classes. Graduate membership is open to those who, at the time of graduation, rank in the upper tenth of the graduating class as determined by their entire record, excluding the freshman year. All active and graduate members automatically become alumni members upon graduation. The National Council may elect to honorary membership.

High scholarship is the primary requisite for membership, but good character and reputation are considerations.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: An outstanding feature of Alpha Chi chapters is their activity and close affiliation with the faculty. The Constitution calls for monthly chapter meetings at which there will be activities promoting scholarly achievement and its recognition. Visiting speakers are presented, student papers are read, faculty-led discussions are held. Free tutoring is done by some chapters; some recognize achievement by granting scholarships. At the Regional Council meetings, student members have a large part in presenting papers, musical and entertainment features, panel discussions, and in voting on policies and actions.

The National Council awards, usually annually, a fellowship, the Benedict Memorial Fellowship, for graduate study to a selected member of Alpha Chi. The National Council and the councils of the two regions into which the Society is divided each award, also usually annually, an Alpha Chi Scholarship to go to a senior student who is a member of Alpha Chi, the one awarded by the National Council to go to a member of a chapter not belonging to one of the two regions, those awarded by the regional councils to go to a member of a chapter belonging to the respective region. The awards in every case are to be made on a competitive basis.

PURPOSE: (1) To encourage excellence in premedical scholarship. (2) To stimulate an appreciation of the importance of premedical education in the study of medicine. (3) To promote cooperation and contacts between medical and premedical students and educators in developing an adequate program of premedical education. (4) To bind together similarly interested students.

ACTIVITIES: From the beginning, Alpha Epsilon Delta has had an Educational Objective—to stimulate an appreciation of the importance of premedical education and to promote cooperation and contacts between medical and premedical students and educators in developing an adequate program of premedical education.

In addition to an extensive program of chapter activities the Society is actively engaged in a number of projects as a further service to its members and other premedical students.

Several symposia on problems of premedical education have been held at the meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science since 1946. A luncheon is held at the annual meetings of the AAAS for a discussion of ideas and suggestions for other programs and activities of the Society. A National Conference on Premedical Education was held on October 21-22, 1950, in cooperation with the Association of American Medical Colleges. Beginning at the University of Louisville in 1947, the Society has held numerous regional conferences pertaining to preprofessional education and papers from these meetings have been published in The Scalpel.

State-wide conferences on premedical and premedical education open to students and faculty from the liberal arts colleges and the medical and dental schools of the area are sponsored by individual chapters. Five scholarships are presented annually to members entering freshman medical or dental class. Distinguished Service Award is presented to outstanding leader in premedical education. Alumni Awards are made to members nominated by a chapter and selected by National Officers. Chapter Activity Awards presented to chapters at biennial convention for most constructive program of activities.

ELIGIBILITY: (1) The student shall be engaged in courses leading to the study of medicine. (2) The student shall have completed at least three semesters or five quarters of premedical work in college with a general scholastic standing of 80% and also with an average of 80% in the sciences and rank in the upper 35% of his class. (3) Character, general ability, and personality must be considered carefully in the selection of every member.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

(Freshman Scholarship—Women)

ADMITTED TO ACHS 1939

Founded at the University of Illinois, May 31, 1924

Number of Active Chapters: 143

Total Membership: 72,934

PURPOSE: To promote intelligent living and a high standard of learning, and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among the freshman women in our institutions of higher learning.

ELIGIBILITY: Student membership is restricted to freshman women who have registered for a minimum or normal student load and who at the end of the first semester, the first two quarters, or the entire freshman year (two semesters or three quarters) have earned a grade average halfway between the two highest grades given by the college or university. The average would be 2.5 when A equals three grade-points and B equals two grade-points, and 3.5 when A equals four grade-points and B equals three grade-points. This predetermined high scholastic average has resulted in the members being selected usually from the upper ten percent of the class.

ACTIVITIES: The chapters initiate their own particular activity programs. The National Council favors the groups' sponsoring only such activities as foster a wholesome respect for and achievement of scholarship. The purpose of membership is to recognize in freshman students potentiality for scholarly development and to encourage them in the pursuit of learning.

FELLOWSHIP: National Alpha Lambda Delta awards, as the treasury permits, five $2,500 graduate fellowships: the Alice Crocker Lloyd Fellowship, the Adele Hagner Stamp Fellowship, the Maria Leonard Fellowship, the Kathryn Sisson Phillips Fellowship, and the National Council Fellowship to recent Alpha Lambda Delta graduates. It is recommended that the work be done in a college or university where there is a chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta. All inquiries regarding the fellowships should be addressed to the first vice-president of the national organization.

PURPOSE: This is a non-secret, Honor Medical Society, membership to which is based entirely upon scholarship, moral qualifications being satisfactory. It is the only order of its kind in medical schools on this continent and its definite mission is to encourage personal honesty and the spirit of medical research.

ELIGIBILITY: Student membership is based on scholastic excellence of men and women, who, as undergraduates, have given promise of becoming leaders in their profession. Selections are made in the junior and senior years. No student shall be excluded on the ground of sex, race, creed or color, nor shall unpopularity among his fellows or teachers be a bar to his election. Total number selected from any class shall not exceed one-sixth of the total number expected to graduate. A graduate of a college in which a chapter exists, though not elected as an undergraduate, may, after ten years or more following graduation, be elected on the basis of outstanding achievement as an alumnus or alumni member. A chapter may elect one distinguished member of the faculty of medicine per year to membership. Honorary members are also elected from the ranks of physicians who have attained noteworthy distinction in any worthy line of human endeavor and of persons, whether physicians or not, who have gained unusual recognition in fields related to medicine.

ACTIVITIES: This is not a social organization. Public addresses by distinguished physicians are given each year under chapter auspices to the entire student body. Many of these have proven to be notable contributions to medical literature. Each year an address is delivered to the Student American Medical Association by a speaker of eminence. This address is known as the William W. Root Lecture, so named to honor the Founder of the Society.

PURPOSE: (1) To confer recognition upon those students of industrial engineering who have shown exceptional academic interests and abilities in their field; (2) To encourage wherever possible any movement which will advance the best interest of industrial engineering education; (3) To further unify the student body of the Industrial Engineering Department in presenting its needs and ideals to the faculty.

ELIGIBILITY: Those students of industrial engineering who rank scholastically in the upper one-third of the senior industrial engineering class and the upper one-fifth of the junior industrial engineering class are considered for membership on the basis of their qualities and potentialities in leadership, ethicality, sociability, character and breadth of interest. Graduate students and alumni may be elected to membership if they meet the requirements for membership as an undergraduate. Faculty members and Professional Industrial Engineers may be elected to Faculty and Honorary membership respectively providing they have proven themselves outstanding in the field.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: At the chapter level the many projects conducted are classified in three basic categories: (1) for the betterment of the field; (2) for the betterment of the school; and (3) for the betterment of the chapter. Examples of these projects are engineering educational programs in high schools, preparation of directories of industrial engineering terms, curriculum rating, free tutoring service, participation in honor councils and student councils, preparation of exhibits for Engineer's Week and special meetings, presentation of awards to outstanding students, publishing of special publications and the sponsoring of student-faculty meetings, special speakers meetings and conferences for all students.

At the national level in addition to coordinating and planning chapter and alumni activities, several specific projects are undertaken. Some of these are: an Annual Chapter Award, an annual award for student publications, the promotion of the Industrial Engineering profession, the publication of related literature, standardization of Industrial Engineering terms and curricula, and a program to encourage Industrial Engineers in professional registration.

Total Membership: 21,616

Magazine: The Transit of Chi Epsilon

PURPOSE: To place a mark of distinction upon the student of civil engineering who exemplifies the four traits of the successful engineer, the cornerstones upon which Chi Epsilon is founded: scholarship, character, practicality, and sociability.

ELIGIBILITY: Only those students shall be eligible for active membership who have maintained an average grade in scholarship in the highest one-third of the class of those who are eligible to Chi Epsilon honors (namely those students duly registered in the civil engineering course, or directly associated courses whose curricula have been approved, and who have completed at least one-half of the required work for their bachelor's degree).

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: On the chapter level individual chapter activities include such projects as establishing reading rooms for all civil engineering students; awarding a prize to the outstanding Freshman civil engineering student; setting up exhibits of civil engineering working models for Engineer Day shows etc.; surveys of curricula and teaching methods in civil engineering; talks to high-school students, telling them about civil engineering; surveys of physical plant, such as lighting of class and drafting rooms, and fire protection; and study-help or "big brother" programs for underclassmen. All chapter activities are undertaken with the thought of assisting the department in its work and in promoting faculty-student relations. Each chapter occasionally selects an outstanding civil engineer to be an Honor Member of that chapter. At each biennial National Conclave one or more such Chapter Honor Member is made a National Honor Member, by petition of the nominating chapter, and election of the Supreme Council. This is the highest honor which Chi Epsilon can confer. It has been granted 27 times in the 45 year history of the organization. The purpose of the alumni program is social, but also to help the young graduate from academic engineering make the jump to the practical kind of engineering with the least possible upset. Many alumni members adopt "little brothers" from the active chapters, helping them over some of the first rough spots in the business of civil engineering.

PURPOSE: "That those in the profession of electrical engineering, who, by their attainments in college or in practice, have manifested a deep interest and marked ability in their chosen life work, may be brought into closer union so as to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges and to mark in an outstanding manner those who, as students in electrical engineering, have conferred honor on their alma mater by distinguished scholarship, activities, leadership and exemplary character and to help these students progress by association with alumni who have attained prominence."

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: In furthering this purpose, the members of the college chapters try to help themselves and their fellow students by departmental and campus activities. Among many others, these include: Collaborate with IEEE Student Branches in making meetings thereof interesting and instructive. Sponsor annual survey of student opinion of individuals on EE faculty—this to be a guide to the individual teacher and not to the department head. Encourage underclass scholarship by making an appropriate award to the outstanding EE sophomore. Sponsor noon luncheons or evening meetings at which cultural and civic subjects are discussed with people from other departments and from industry. However, there is no regimentation; the chapters are informed of possible activities but make their choice. Nationally, the Association periodically undertakes a salary survey of its members. It recognizes the Most Outstanding Young Electrical Engineer of each year. It sponsored the production of a sound-film full-color movie: "Engineering—A Career for Tomorrow" and now is promoting the showing of this to high-school students from ninth to twelfth grade.

ELIGIBILITY: For a junior to be eligible for election he must be in the upper fourth of his EE class; for a senior, in the upper third. All must have acceptable character and show marked ability and personality. There is no discrimination as to sex, race or creed and/or membership in or affiliation with other recognized societies. Men and women in industry and the profession may be made Members on national approval. Engineers of exceedingly high attainment are made "Eminent Members."

PURPOSE: To recognize and promote excellence in the study of literature.

ACTIVITIES: In its annual magazine Lambda Iota Tau has published since 1966 a bibliography of masters' theses in the field of literature. It also awards an annual scholarship to a woman member whose educational plans have been interrupted by marriage. In addition to its journal, which is the only predominantly undergraduate publication indexed in Abstracts of English Studies, the society publishes a biannual Newsletter, which as well as news of chapter activities provides information about graduate assistantships; and an annual alumni newsletter, The Lambdan, which lists vacancies in college departments of English and foreign languages. The society makes available subscriptions to twenty literary reviews and learned journals.

Chapters are encouraged to hold regular meetings and to sponsor events and activities which will bring the study of literature to the attention of the campus at large. The society holds an annual convention in conjunction with either the Modern Language Association or the National Council of Teachers of English and regional conferences as well.

ELIGIBILITY: Members are majors or minors in literature, no matter in what language that literature may be written, who (1) are in the upper 35% of their class in cumulative grade average, (2) have attained at least a full B average in at least twelve semester credit hours or eighteen term hours of literature and all prerequisites thereto, (3) are enrolled in at least their fifth college semester or seventh college term, and (4) have presented an initiation paper on a literary topic or of a creative nature.

PURPOSE: To promote interest in research in the biological sciences.

ELIGIBILITY: Students who are enrolled in an accredited college or university, who have shown research interest, and who have received an equivalent of at least two years of college credit of which at least one-fourth is in biological science, with a scholarship rating in the upper 35 per cent of their class, shall be eligible for active membership. This minimum ACHS requirement is modified by chapter by-laws; at least a "B" average is expected together with other qualifications suitable to the local chapters—particularly for graduate students.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: Each chapter plans its own programs with a wide variety of activities, ranging from the presentation of papers by the members and lectures by outside speakers, to field trips, laboratory demonstrations, and projects. Biennial meetings are held at which delegates from each active chapter meet with the Council for the purpose of formulating policies and transacting all important business of the Society. The national organization annually cooperates with each school that maintains an active chapter in presenting award certificates to one outstanding undergraduate and one outstanding graduate student in any of the biological sciences—pure or applied. Founded at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., October, 1922

Total Membership: 14,600

Publication: News Letter of Phi Sigma Iota

PURPOSE: The recognition of outstanding ability and attainments in the Romance languages and literatures, the stimulation of advanced work and individual research in this field, and the promotion of a sentiment of amity between our nation and the nations using these languages.

ELIGIBILITY: Membership is based on scholarship. Undergraduate students must have at least a "B" average in the Romance languages, as well as in the entire college course, must be of Junior standing and rank in the upper 35 per cent of their class in general scholarship. However, if a chapter desires to elect a student below the junior year, by virtue of exceptional attainments, the case is referred to the Executive Committee (consisting of all National Officers), but in no case shall he or she be elected who has not completed at least three semesters or five quarters of the College course. The individual chapters may make further restrictions on membership.

Graduate students are chosen among those with at least a "B plus" average.

PURPOSE: To recognize and honor those individuals in the field of aeronautics who have through scholarship, integrity, and outstanding achievement been a credit to their profession. The Society seeks to foster a high standard of ethics and professional practices and to create a spirit of loyalty and fellowship, particularly among students of aeronautical engineering.

ELIGIBILITY: Student members must have completed at least half of their undergraduate college work for the bachelors degree; be enrolled in an accredited department of aerospace engineering; be in the upper one-third of their senior or upper one-quarter of their junior class, also have a grade average equivalent to B (85%); and must meet residence requirements. They must also have shown qualities of high moral character and an active interest in aeronautics and astronautics. Graduate students must be in good standing and have met similar requirements.

SPECIAL MEMBERS: Must definitely be in the Aerospace Engineering Profession. May be elected (1) if they have made worthy contributions toward the advancement of the Aerospace profession, (2) if they are teachers of aerospace engineering or related subjects, or (3) if they have made a significant contribution to science that may be deemed worthy of membership in the society.

ACTIVITIES: Promote better understanding between the students and staff, act as a means of organizing aeronautical and astronautical activities both scientific and social in nature, and in general to promote ethical and professional betterment of the field as stated in the purpose of the society.

PURPOSE: (1) to serve as a means of awarding distinction to students having high scholarship and promise of achievement in physics; (2) to promote student interest in research and the advanced study of this science; (3) to encourage a professional spirit and friendship among those who have displayed marked ability in physics; and (4) to popularize interest in physics in the general collegiate public.

ELIGIBILITY: Student membership is restricted to juniors and seniors who have attained standards of high scholarship, professional interest and merit, and scholastic proficiency or distinction. Graduate students and faculty members in physics and closely related sciences may also be elected. Student membership is restricted to those in the upper 33 per cent of their class, although most chapters establish standards higher than this minimum.

ACTIVITIES: Chapters are expected to be working organizations throughout the academic year, functioning for the promotion of the extra-curricular activities of the physics department. Regular meetings provide opportunity for members to present technical papers, hear visiting speakers and to sponsor physics "shows," etc. The national office acts as a service agency for the chapters, assisting them with visiting speakers, a loan fund, officer training, the promotion of memberships and activities in the professional physics societies, placement services, summer employment information, film lists, and graduate fellowship data.

PURPOSE: (1) To recognize the achievement of scholarship of superior quality. (2) To recognize the development of leadership qualities. (3) To foster high professional standards. (4) To encourage creative work. (5) To strengthen commitment on the part of individuals to the ideals and purposes of the profession of nursing.

ELIGIBILITY: Membership is based on scholastic excellence, leadership potential and desirable personal qualifications. Undergraduate members are selected from junior and senior students in basic professional programs in nursing. Nurses matriculated for graduate study and full-time faculty members of the educational unit may also be selected. In addition, nurses who have received a baccalaureate or higher degree and have shown marked achievement in the field of nursing are eligible for election. Student membership is restricted to the upper one-third of a class.

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP: Conferred by national society for outstanding contributions to nursing.

ACTIVITIES: The national society awards grants to aid nurses engaged in research related to nursing; publishes the magazine Image three times a year; holds biennial conventions. Local chapters grant scholarships and awards; initiate projects that contribute to their school or community; sponsor programs of significance to the profession; participate in honors convocations and other campus activities.

PURPOSE: To mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their alma mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America.

ELIGIBILITY: Men whose scholarship places them in the highest one-eighth of the junior class or in the highest one-fifth of the senior class are further considered for membership on the basis of character, integrity, and unselfish activities. Women are not eligible for membership, but may be elected to receive the special women's badge. A total of 496 women's badges have been awarded since 1936.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: At the local chapter level, many college-service projects are conducted, like awards to outstanding underclassmen, student tutoring, faculty rating, lectureships, school-wide social events, and library donations. At the national level, the two most important concrete projects are the graduate fellowship and the student loan programs. Since inauguration of the annual fellowship program in 1929, 228 men have been given stipends totaling over $278,000. Under the student loan program some 550 men have borrowed over $155,000 from the Association since 1932. Many Tau Beta Pi chapters also operate loan funds for initiation fees and school needs.

PURPOSE: The purpose of the fraternity is to secure and maintain a high standard of scholarship in forestry education, to work for the improvement of the forestry profession and to promote a fraternal spirit among those engaged in activities related to the forest.

ELIGIBILITY: Juniors, seniors and transfer students regularly enrolled in a forestry division department, school or college of conservation, natural resources, or similiary named instructional entities are eligible for membership under the following conditions, (1) He or she must have completed at least 74 semester hours or 110 quarter hours of credit; (2) If a transfer student, he must have been regularly registered in the forestry department, forestry school, or forestry college for at least one semester or one and a half quarters; (3) He or she must rank scholastically in the upper 25 per cent of his fraternity class.

Graduate students must have an outstanding academic record in their graduate work to be eligible for membership.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES: Activities vary greatly with the individual chapters. Among activities carried on by various chapters are the following, (1) Making an award to one or more students annually for high scholastic achievement; (2) The maintenance of alumni records; (3) Providing a tutoring service for freshmen students.

Individual chapters will sponsor the election of outstanding foresters to honorary membership in the fraternity, approval of which must be secured by a vote of the executive council.

The fraternity holds biennial conventions in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Society of American Foresters. The national officers are rotated among the various chapters.

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGE HONOR SOCIETIES

Organized October 2, 1925

University of Wisconsin
Madison, Wisconsin
October, 1967

To the President of Colleges and Universities

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

The Association of College Honor Societies is pleased to send you herewith two copies of its 1967 Booklet of information.

This Booklet is distributed biennially to explain the organization and purpose of the Association to you as an Administrator and Educator. Members of the Association meet annually to consider problems of mutual interest and to determine channels through which the Association can promote the highest type of program and standards within Honor Societies.

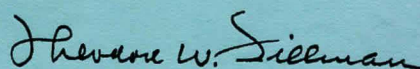

Ever present concerns include requirements for membership, analysis of standards, relationships with other educational organizations, and encouragement of high scholastic achievement. We enlist your support and that of other faculty members in your Institution to promote excellence among Honor Society members.

Each member society is described briefly in the Booklet and there is also a listing of representatives from the individual groups to the Association. We hope that you will feel free to call upon us at any time that the officers of the Association may be of help to you.

If you desire additional copies of the Information Booklet, please write to Dr. Donald B. Hoffman, Secretary-Treasurer, 2812 Livingston St., Allentown, Pa. 18104

We appreciate your interest in and cooperation with the Association of College Honor Societies. Would you please pass on one booklet to the administrator who can make the most use of it.

Sincerely yours,

THEODORE W. ZILLMAN
National President, ACHS

December 18, 1967

President Eugene S. Farley
Wilkes College
Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania 18703

Dear President Farley:

This letter is written to introduce you to ALPHA CHI, a national honor scholarship society that has 67 chapters in 21 states. The objectives of ALPHA CHI are the promotion and recognition of superior scholarship and of those elements of character that make scholarship effective for good.

ALPHA CHI is one of four national honor societies recognizing superior scholarship in the academic field without reference to a specific area of study. ALPHA CHI is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies organized October 2, 1925, by Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Omega Alpha, and the Order of the Coif.

Many colleges recognizing the need for motivating their students to achieve superior scholarship have organized local honor scholarship societies that have rendered great service. Much greater status and effectiveness is achieved, however, when the chapter has national affiliation rather than just local scope. According to the information I have, you do not have a national honor scholarship society on your campus. I am enclosing a mimeographed sheet which gives a short history of ALPHA CHI and a summary of the Constitution of ALPHA CHI.

Only regionally accredited senior colleges and universities are eligible to receive a chapter of ALPHA CHI. The chapter installation fee is $50.00 and the life-time individual membership fee is $5.00. The chapter will be installed by a representative of the National Council of ALPHA CHI at the expense of the Council.

I believe you will find that a chapter of ALPHA CHI on your campus will make a significant contribution toward promoting superior scholarship among your students. If you are interested in receiving more information about ALPHA CHI, please write me.

Respectfully yours,

Edwin W. Gaston, Jr.
President, National Council of ALPHA CHI

ALPHA CHI

A Short History of Alpha Chi

In 1915 a movement was inaugurated in Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas, to encourage and to promote higher standards of scholarship among the undergraduate students by appropriate recognition of studious habits and by properly emphasizing the advantages to be derived from superior intellectual attainments. The results of this co-operative movement on the part of both faculty members and the more serious-minded students soon demonstrated its effectiveness in stimulating a more wholesome literary and intellectual atmosphere in the institution.

So rapidly did this idea spread, and so readily was its need recognized in other institutions, that representatives from eleven Texas colleges met on the campus of Southwestern University on February 22, 1922, adopted the name "Scholarship Societies of Texas," and discussed such other items as constitution, key, and shingle.

In 1923 representatives of the member colleges met at the University of Texas with Dr. Benedict, who at that time was Dean. It was at this meeting that the constitution was adopted along with the design of the shield and the key.

At the Annual Council Meeting at Texas Christian University in 1927, applications for membership from several colleges in Louisiana and Arkansas were accepted, and the name of the organization was changed to "The Scholarship Societies of the South."

In 1934, at the meeting held on the campus of Texas State College for Women, Denton, a new constitution was adopted and the name was changed to ALPHA CHI.

Summary of the Constitution of Alpha Chi

Alpha Chi is an organization of scholarship chapters of various colleges and universities in the nation. The governing body is a National Council composed of twelve or more members, one-half of whom are elected by the National Council and one-half by the Regional Councils. The National Council shall meet upon petition of the Council members or upon the call of the National Executive Committee which is composed of the general officers of Alpha Chi — the President, Vice President, and Secretary-Treasurer. The Regional Council is composed of a faculty representative appointed by the President of each institution for a term of three years and a student representative elected by the local society for a one-year term. The Regional Council meets annually. Each chapter has one vote in the Regional Council.

The object of the chapters is the "stimulation, development, and recognition of scholarship and those elements of character that make scholarship effective for good."

The officers of the Regional Council shall be elected from the faculty members of the Council or alumni members of the societies. They shall consist of a President, Vice President, and Secretary-Treasurer. The President and Vice President serve one year and may succeed themselves. The Secretary-Treasurer serves for a term of five years and is eligible for re-election.

A chapter in an institution may be organized provided the institution is a member of and in good standing with some standardizing body such as the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, or the American Association of Teachers Colleges, or some similar body.

The colors of the Society are emerald green, signifying victory, and sapphire blue, signifying truth. The motto of the Society is the verse of Scripture taken from the 32nd verse of the 8th chapter of the Gospel according to John: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Each local Chapter of Alpha Chi has a Faculty Advisory Committee of three members: one appointed by the President of the institution for a three-year term, and two appointed by the Society for a term of one year. The member appointed for the three-year term is also, by virtue of his office, a member of the Executive Committee of the Chapter. Members of the Advisory Committee have the various privileges of the local Society including that of voting, but not of wearing the key.

There are four classes of membership in Alpha Chi: Active, Graduate, Alumnus, and Honorary. To be eligible for membership, a student must be in the upper ranking tenth (approximately) of the junior or senior class. Elections are regularly held at the beginning of each semester for the junior and senior memberships, and at the end of the year for graduate membership. A student elected to any of these three classes of membership is permanently a member of Alpha Chi unless the membership is revoked for cause. A student may thus be elected to junior membership at the beginning of the junior year and later be promoted to senior membership and to graduate membership by retaining his or her place in the upper tenth of the class. On the other hand, he or she may fail of promotion to a higher membership because of failure to retain a place in the upper section of the class. Thus each promotion is a new honor justly coveted by the members. Election of student members is by vote of the Faculty upon recommendation of the Advisory Committee which is also the Membership Committee of the local chapter. Good reputation and character are essential qualifications for membership. A higher standard than the upper tenth of the class may be set by the Chapter. In the case of a small institution the percentage may be slightly in excess of the upper tenth of the classes eligible.

There are two classes of Honorary members. The local chapter may nominate for Honorary membership not to exceed two graduates of the institution per year, such nominations to be proposed to the National Council. Such graduates must "have achieved signal success in postgraduate work" or "who have distinguished themselves in the field of scholarship after graduation."

All members of the National Council shall be Honorary members ex-officio; all regional presidents and secretary-treasurers shall be Honorary members by reason of their election.

The local Chapter may elect not to exceed one member of the Faculty Advisory Committee a year to "Associate Membership in the Chapter." Such members shall have the right to participate in the chapter meetings but not the right to vote or to wear the key.

Each Chapter pays to the Secretary-Treasurer of the National Council a fee of five dollars ($5.00) for each Active or Graduate member elected, provided that only one such fee shall be paid for the same student and that it shall include the payment for the shingle.

Each local Chapter may adopt such local regulations as do not conflict with the national constitution or regional regulations.

Dear Dr. Gaston:

Thank you for your letter of December 18 advising me of the character and purpose of ALPHA CHI.

We are very much interested in affiliating with your group and, in consequence, I will appreciate information regarding the steps that we must take to obtain such an affiliation.

Sincerely yours,

President
