SUSQUEHANNA vs. WILKES

October 30, 1976 - Kiwanis-Stagg Hat Game

By Pete Silvestri, S.U. Director of Public Information

This is the 17th annual Sunbury Kiwanis Charities Football Festival, played for the Stagg Hat Trophy, fashioned from the "Old Hat" worn by the late Amos Alonzo Stagg Sr. when he and his son A.A. Stagg Jr. were co-coaches at Susquehanna, 1947-'52.

Susquehanna and Wilkes meet today as two teams seeking a victory and a trophy that will brighten an otherwise disappointing season. As this is written, Susquehanna is 0-5, Wilkes 1-3 (through games of Oct. 9). The visiting Colonels played in two previous Kiwanis games and took the Stagg Hat trophy back to Wilkes-Barre both times, defeating the Crusaders 24-0 in 1972 and 10-8 in 1974. Last year's winner was Grove City. The last time the "Old Hat" stayed in Selinsgrove was 1973.

Known as "the Grand Old Man of College Football," Stagg began coaching at Springfield College in 1890. He coached at the University of Chicago for 41 years and at the College of the Pacific for 14 years before joining his son at Susquehanna, where he passed his 90th birthday. He later served seven seasons as an advisory coach at Stockton College, retiring in 1960 at the age of 98.

His 100th birthday in 1962 was celebrated nation-wide by thousands of guests at dinners in Selinsgrove, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Annapolis, Md., Stockton, California, his home, and West Orange, N.J., his birthplace. President John F. Kennedy sent a congratulatory telegram.

Stagg ranks first in all-time college coaching victories with 314. A firm believer in the forward pass, he is credited with introducing such innovations as offensive shifts, man-in-motion plays, the "lonesome end," single and double flankers, the quick kick, and basic elements of the T formation. He also won honors as a player at Yale University, being named as an end on Walter Camp's first All-American team in 1889.

An advocate of moral as well as physical training, Stagg is said to have made "character building" a household phrase. He was a strong opponent of the trend toward professionalism and commercialism in college football. "The game is for the boys. I hope they'll keep it amateur," he said on his 100th birthday. Stagg did not use coffee, tea, tobacco or alcohol. He died in 1965 at the age of 102.

Current S.U. head coach Jim Hazlett is a proponent of the Stagg coaching philosophy. Hazlett played on the Staggs' undefeated 1951 Crusader eleven, and was named first team offensive center on the Little All-American squad. Hazlett is now in his 11th year as athletic director and head football and baseball coach at Susquehanna.

The Crusaders and the Colonels are having similar problems this season in that the defensive units are playing well but the offenses have failed to move the ball consistently and put points on the board. Through its first four games the Wilkes eleven allowed opponents only 904 total yards, but gained only 599 of its own. Through five games Susquehanna did not surrender more than three touchdowns in any one game. However, on only one occasion, against Geneva, did the Crusaders score two touchdowns in one game and they lost by 13-12 on a last minute field goal.

Top defensive player for Wilkes is senior Don McDermott who had two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery from his cornerback position and a 38.7-yard average on 34 punts. Junior defensive tackle Tony Pace is another Colonel standout. The main offensive threat is junior tailback Ed Murray who had 200 yards rushing and 59 yards receiving through four games.

Susquehanna had most of its offensive success through the air. For five games senior quarterback Hadley Brown had completed 49 of 120 passes for 534 yards, with seven intercepted. Top receiver was senior split end John Xanthis with 25 catches for 316 yards. Mainstays of the defensive unit include tackle Gabe Develli, end Joe Stein, linebacker Andre Ferrante, and backs Brad Moore and John Fiske.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, Sr., circa 1950, with "old hat" in hand. The hat worn by the "Grand Old Man of College Football" when he coached at Susquehanna was bronzed and made into the trophy which goes to the winner of today's game.

"THE OLD HAT"

The trademark over the many years of Coach A. A. Stagg's career has been a battered $1.98 hat bought from J. C. Penney stock.

The hat symbolized Coach Stagg's inventive genius in the technical football world. It sat, Saturday after Saturday, socially on his head while ideas, theories and trickery danced through his head.

It wasn't by accident that Rich Young recognized the symbolism in Coach Stagg's hat. He requested to Coach Stagg that he would like to receive the hat as a gift when he graduated. Without further conversation, Coach Stagg remembered and at his last banquet Coach Stagg quietly slipped the hat to Young.

Today, it is a symbolic trophy. Stagg's heritage to Susquehanna University and National Football. Also, Stagg's sense of sportsmanship and Christian character.

The Kiwanis game today is dedicated to the principles of Stagg and the traditions of the hat, "Service to others."

So You Think You Know the Rules?

by VOLNEY MEECE, Oklahoma City Times

So you're a college football fanatic and think you know all the rules in the book, eh?

Don't bet on it.

For instance, rule 9-2A1, which went into effect in 1975 but may have escaped your attention. It says, put into simpler-than-the-rule-book language, "use of gestures or acts that provoke ill will is a non-contact, 15-yard penalty foul."

Naughty language is included among acts covered by the rule, which was aimed at stopping the "intimidation" or "showing up" of another player or official. In other words, things like a receiver who's just beaten a defender on a pass taunting the latter by flaunting the ball in front of his face or popping off.

Most fans probably went the entire 1975 season without seeing such a call. Cliff Speegle, Southwest Conference executive secretary who became chairman of the NCAA rules committee Sept. 1, 1975 when John Waldorf of the Big Eight retired, said it was called a couple of times in his league.

No Mob Scenes

Another recent change which sometimes confuses fans who aren't up on their rules was outlawing of the "idiot drill."

Speegle said the idiot drill "is where the whole team assembles in the end zone on a touchdown or runs out on the field when a guy intercepts a pass and beat him to death."

"The coaches used to go down in the end zone when a kid scored a touchdown but they started assessing a 15-yard penalty so the coaches decided maybe it was a little better to stay in the bench area."

Speegle pointed out, "There's another rule a lot of people have a problem with, the 12-men-on-the-field rule. If a youngster is attempting to get off the field, it's five yards. But if he is part of the play, then it's 15."

Judgment calls are a thorn in rulesmakers' sides, of course, not to mention those of players, coaches—and the officials themselves. The No. 1 matter of judgment, and controversy, is, has been and always will be pass interference.

Speaking of judgment calls, a goodly percentage of fans (and probably coaches and players) holds the opinion, "You could call holding on every play." Not because of such criticism, of course, but starting this season offensive blockers will get a little "relief."

Speegle said, in untechnical terms, the blocker may allow his hands stray away from his body during contact. There are restrictions: The arms can't be more than half extended and the palms can't be facing the opponent.

The Ump Ain't Blind

Incidentally, 'tain't so any official can call holding on any play. The main area of holding, across the interior line, is the responsibility of the umpire. Other officials aren't looking for holding, they're scanning specifically assigned areas in the flow of the play.

In 1976, there's one new rule

Speegle termed "real vital. That is the youngster who tackles a runner deliberately with the top of his head gets a 15-yard penalty. We're trying to get that youngster to get his head up. We're trying to protect him from injury."

Although many fans know what's going on when officials start blowing their whistles and signalling penalties, few know about the striped-shirters' pre-game duties. They don't just get out of the car and walk on-field for the kickoff.

An Ounce of Prevention

Speegle said, "The referee, umpire or one other official go into the team dressing room approximately an hour before the game and check for illegal equipment."

"And they check for any specific instructions—unusual plays, etc., that the coach would like to reveal. Also, they go over game procedures—flip, kickoff, etc.—with the head coach."

Most major conferences have an observer at each game. One of his main duties is meeting with officials beforehand. "In the Southwest Conference," Speegle said, "It's in our regulations that we have at least 1½ hours of uninterrupted game-action discussion. We start with the flip of the coin, who brings the captains out, how they're introduced, the whole procedure of the game."

"We go over every situation we can anticipate—type of formations, types of plays, unusual situations. No, you never get everything. But, basically, if you get all the routine plays, the others will take care of themselves."

Football Humor Might Be a Myth

by GUS SCHRADER, Sports Editor, Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette
President, Football Writers Association of America

There's a sardonic adage among backwoods guides about the predictability of the novices they take duck-hunting or fishing: "Most of the early rising is done the night before."

Let's see, we ought to be able to adapt that to form a saying about football. Maybe something like "Most of the side-splitting halftime humor in the locker room is invented after the season is over." And probably—as Bob Zupke used to say—by some poet in the pressbox.

Most sports writers will take their humor where they can find it, but not much of it comes from the locker room at halftime. Why not? Well, modern coaches find football a grim business. They tolerate precious little foolishness that near the task of winning football games.

Off the Deep End

Oh, there are some of the "trite-old tales" that postseason banquet speakers have used for years. You know the kind: The coach's halftime oration got his team so fired up that when he finished by saying, "I want you to go out that door and tear your opponents in half for Dear Old Siwash," the players charged through the door—and into the swimming pool. Yup, wrong door.

You can see why the pressbox poets have to improve and improvise. For instance, do you think this one really happened?

A coach was desperate for an idea as he followed his team into the locker room at halftime. They were trailing badly. As he groped for a motivation angle, his eyes saw the word "PUSH" on the locker room door as he entered.

That was it! He stalked into the room where his team was assembled. "Men, to succeed in life you need the same thing we are going to need in this second half," he intoned, "and it's expressed in a four-letter word printed on that door."

The players' gaze followed his dramatic finger, and they saw "PULL" printed on the inside of the door.

When Lee Corso was named football coach at Indiana, he told the news media they were welcome to come to his locker room at halftime to see and hear what transpired. Knowing what a fun-loving free spirit Corso is, a large number of writers and broadcasters took him up on this offer the first season. Alas, very few humorous stories came out of it, as even a merry man like Corso is deadly serious about football at halftime.

Most coaches are honest. They would dearly love to enhance their image by telling writers how brilliantly they used psychology to change the game's direction.

But here now is how Joe Paterno, coach of Penn State's fabulously successful Nittany Lions, related the true story of what happened in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1, 1968. Kansas was leading 14-7 with 1:30 to go when Penn State got the ball on the Kansas 49½-yard line.

"We had two timeouts left," Joe told the Football Writers Association of America. "The clock was stopped for a TV timeout when we took over. I called our wide receiver, Bobby Campbell, and our quarterback, Chuck Burkhardt, over to the sideline and told them our strategy.

"I told these two players that on the first play I wanted Campbell to run a deep pattern and Burkhardt to throw as long a pass as he could—over the end zone if possible. I told them we wanted Kansas to think these foolish Penn State people had panicked and were going for the bomb.

"Then, on second down, I wanted Burkhardt to dump off a little pass to our great tight end, Ted Kwalik, who would catch them with their defense deep; and Ted could run the ball down in there close for us. We would use one of our last two timeouts and set up a touchdown play.

"These two great kids immediately began talking," Joe resumed. "Campbell told Burkhardt to get the ball to him down by the goal line and he'd catch it. I told them both to cut it out. We didn't want any heroes on that first play, just a long, long pass to fool Kansas.

"Well, the timeout was over and they started back onto the field still talking. You've all seen the coach following his players onto the field, giving them last-second instructions. I was following those two guys and yelling at them not to fool around and risk an interception.

"The ball was snapped and Burkhardt faked to pass. Kansas put a heavy rush on him, and he barely got the ball away. It was over-thrown, however, as we wanted.

"Campbell really had no chance to catch it, but he was so determined that he dove horizontally and somehow caught the ball just before it hit the ground on the Kansas three-yard line.

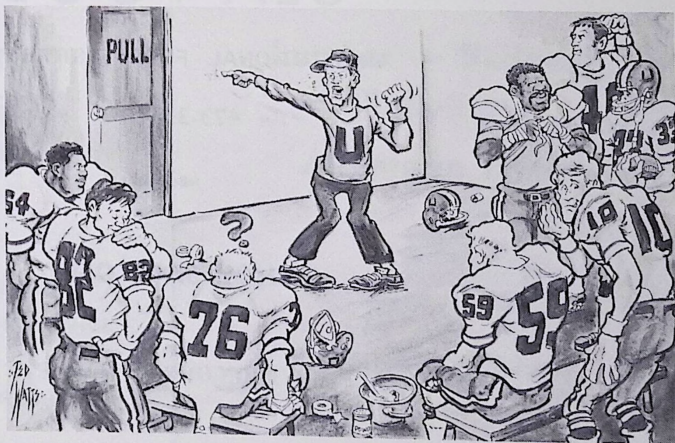

Dirty Dozen

"We had a first down, and because Kansas had 12 men on the field, it took us four plays to score. That made it 14-13, and we went for two points. On the first try, Kansas was penalized for having the extra man on the field, and we made it on the next one to win 15-14.

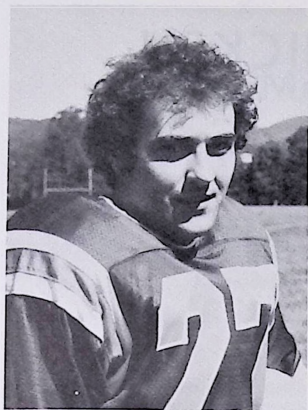

"It was a tremendous victory, but the thing I'll always remember was the great dedication those two players had on the play that was supposed to be just a sham.

"I went to the dressing room, and the newspaper writers came in. They wanted to know how I called that great play on first down to set up the touchdown.

"I looked around at the squad and then turned back to the press. 'Well,' I said, 'I noticed that the Kansas safety man was playing a little tight and . . .'

As American As Eddie Robinson

by JERRY BYRD, Shreveport (La.) Journal Sports Editor

Grambling's Eddie Robinson is a man for all seasons, but his message is especially appropriate for the bicentennial year.

He's as American as mom's apple pie and Fourth of July fireworks.

He came out of a Baton Rouge feed mill 35 years ago to take the football coaching job at an obscure little college in the red clay hills of North Louisiana.

For years, Eddie Robinson was the only black coach attending the clinics. "Where are you from?" they asked him. And they laughed, because they thought he was saying, "Gambling."

Today, he is president of the American Football Coaches Association—and fourth on the list of all-time winners behind Amos Alonzo Stagg, Glenn "Pop" Warner and Paul "Bear" Bryant.

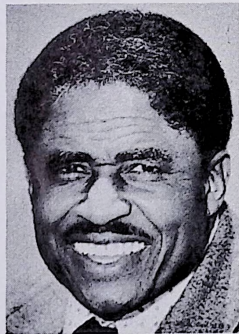

He went to Grambling two years after the wood frame buildings were replaced with eight permanent brick buildings. The school had fewer than 600 students, and when it lost every game his first season, it was obvious that not too many Tigers were football players.

Robinson booted some members of the team because they preferred to feel sorry for themselves.

Turnaround Year

The following year, Grambling was undefeated—and on its way to becoming a legend.

"What is wrong with today's youth is what is wrong with America," Eddie Robinson says. "We take so much for granted. Everyone is enjoying this affluent way of living and we think everyone else is, but I just don't think it's true except in America. I try to tell my players to be men and get their lessons because they'll be the ones running this great country someday. I was talking to some boys the other night, and I told them that in time maybe one of them listening to my voice might be running for governor of Louisiana."

When he went to Grambling, players were cutting pulpwood to pay for their equipment.

When he upgraded the schedule, the team went to Baltimore, Maryland for a game with Morgan State in a "yellow hound" school bus.

"Every seat was taken and we had two or three folding chairs in the aisle," recalls sports information director Collie Nicholson. "I had to sit on top of the equipment in the back of the bus. We left on Tuesday and got to Baltimore late Thursday, and we had cold cuts and milk en route."

Don't Look Back

"We didn't have much to look ahead to," Eddie Robinson has often said, "but we had even less to look back on."

Since 1949, many Grambling football players have had much more to look forward to. That was the year "Tank" Younger became the first player from a predominantly black college to sign a professional contract.

Robinson has sent many more players down the same path. Last fall was typical, with eight Tigers being drafted in the first 10 rounds.

Grambling football teams now travel first-class from coast to coast—and across the Pacific Ocean to Hawaii.

The Tigers still lack major college facilities at home, but they play football in America's best stadiums. They played the first college game in the new Louisiana Superdome, and the word is that whenever they get around to playing a game on the moon, Grambling will be there.

Robinson has little patience with those who complain because their facilities aren't adequate.

"A few years ago," he says, "we didn't have grass on our field. But it was just a matter of going out there and planting some. I don't look for things like that. It's performance that counts. If you can block and tackle in the sand, you can block and tackle on artificial turf. I see a lot of people with facilities who aren't doing anything."

After 246 victories and three different practice fields, Eddie Robinson has seen a lot of changes—in and out of football—since he left the Baton Rouge feed mill.

"Kids have changed," he says. "And the problems we are dealing with have changed. Any person who says he can't go to school today is a liar. I don't want anyone telling me he never had a chance. You know, things just don't happen, you have to make them happen."

The man who has seen so many dreams come true believes the American dream is alive and well.

"I am an American," says Eddie Robinson. "You can accomplish more without hate. I have never been bitter. I guess I've always believed in the philosophy of the country. If you work, you get paid."

COLONEL FOOTBALL CHIEF

Roland C. (Rollie) Schmidt

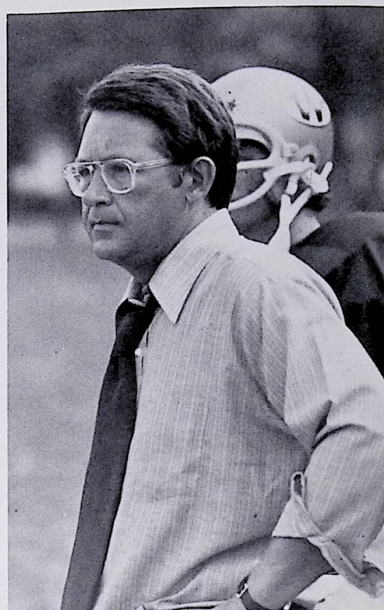

Rollie Schmidt starts his 15th year at the helm of the Wilkes College football Colonels. During this time Schmidt's clubs have posted a 72-39-1 winning record.

His squads were the talk of the nation from 1965 to 1969, copping 37 victories in 40 outings. Included in this impressive list of accomplishments were five straight MAC Northern Division titles, two Lambert Bowls (1968, 1966), which are symbolic of ECAC Division III supremacy, three consecutive undefeated seasons (1966-68), and a 32-game winning streak, the third longest in NCAA CD history.

Wilkes overcame a five-year title drought in 1974 to capture its sixth MAC Northern Division crown, most ever by any member of the circuit. Not to be outdone in other areas of athletics, Schmidt coached the Blue and Gold baseball team from 1962 to 1969, and in 1970 became the golf mentor relinquishing his diamond duties to Gene Domzalski.

His 1968 and 1969 baseball teams combined for a 22-5 record and won an MAC crown in 1968. In 1971 and 1972 Schmidt's gold teams garnered back-to-back MAC links championships. Wilkes golf reached its finest hour this past spring, posting a perfect 16-0 dual season, just missed another MAC title by one stroke, but then went on to cop the NCAA III Regional tourney and place 14th in the NCAA Division III national confab at Wittenberg University.

Schmidt is a graduate of Wilkes-Barre Coughlin High School and Bloomsburg State College. His coaching career began as an assistant football and track coach at Clarks Summit High School. Prior to becoming grid chief at Wilkes, he was an assistant to Jim Fennell at Kingston (Pa.) High School for three years. Rollie is married to the former Margaret Dombroski of Plains.

Wilkes and Juniata in Sixth "Anthracite Bowl"

Match Juniata and Wilkes in a football game and what do you have? — Unpredictable Excitement!! Add the fact that today's game will be on regional television and throw in the "Anthracite Bowl" for the icing and you can forget what the teams have done to date.

THE ANTHRACITE BOWL

1971	Scranton	16	King's	14
1972	(cancelled due to Hurricane Agnes)
1973	King's	26	St. Vincent's	6
1974	Wilkes	24	Delaware Valley	14
1975	Wilkes	31	Delaware Valley	18

Just three points separate Juniata from an undefeated season. The Indians, 6-2, were knocked out of the Northern Division and NCAA III playoff race by Albright, 15-13; and Lycoming, 14-13. Some of their big wins were over Indiana State, 38-21; Westminster, 14-7; and Gettysburg, 20-3.

While hardly anyone expected a championship year for Wilkes, few could foresee the Colonels hobbling along with a 1-5 record at this stage of the season. Surprisingly, the Blue and Gold have played their best against good competition — Lycoming, 21-15; and Albright, 24-7, in a score which doesn't reflect the Colonels' play.

The Wilkes-Juniata game is being televised "live" on ABC affiliate Channel 16, Scranton/Wilkes-Barre; and other selected cable companies in central Pennsylvania. For those watching in the stands, a replay of the game can be seen tonight on Channel 16 following the late movie at 1 a.m.

According to a pact made between the college and the Shawnee American Legion Post of Plymouth in 1974, the final Blue and Gold game of each season will be designated as the "Anthracite Bowl" with Wilkes college serving as permanent hosts for the event.

History of the "Anthracite Bowl" dates back to November 20, 1971, when the University of Scranton defeated King's College, 16-14, at Plymouth's Huber Field. Last year Wilkes scored a 31-18 triumph over Delaware Valley in the fifth annual encounter.

Juniata will be neutralized, somewhat today with the loss of senior quarterback Dave Wichrowski, who sustained a muscle trauma in last week's 20-6 victory over Delaware Valley and will not play. Coach Walt Nadzak will go with the untested Wayne Emerick at the controls.

Emerick, a 6-1, 175-pounder, has yet to throw a collegiate pass and has run the ball three times for nine yards in limited action behind Wichrowski.

Two weeks ago the Indians suffered another big blow when sophomore Allen Lipstein, who had been leading the club in scoring, rushing and receiving, tore up his knee and was deemed sidelined for the season. The two healthy returnees in the Juniata offensive backfield are DeWayne Rideout, 5-9, 190-pound sophomore; and Gary Lyter, 5-10, 180-pound second-year man.

DAVE WICHROWSKI

Rideout has rushed 102 times for 426 yards and five touchdowns while Lyter has toted the pigskin for 90 carries and 381 yards. Juniata shows a balanced effort running out of the "Multiple," "I," and "Pro" formations with 1451 yards on the ground and 1006 yards in the air.

ED FLYNN

While Emerick's aerial accuracy is unreviewed, potential receivers Tom Gibboney, 14 catches - 319 yards, and Ed Flynn, 20 catches - 307 yards, have all the tools of the trade.

Defensively, the Indians have allowed an average of 237 yards per outing. The visitors from Huntingdon are fortified with All-MAC defenders middle guard Stu Jackson and end Joe Weimer anchoring the Juniata "5-2 Oklahoma" formation. Junior safety Bob Devine is a man to watch with 20 interceptions in less than three years of college football. Devine, who has seven this year, pilfered three against Delaware Valley last Saturday and barely missed a fourth.

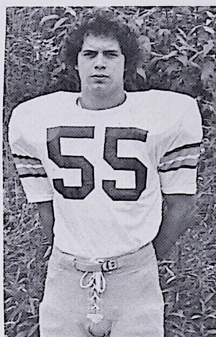

STU JACKSON

Series play between the teams stands 6-5 in favor of Juniata. Prior to the Indians come-from-behind 20-14 win at Huntingdon last year, the visitors had lost five straight to Roland Schmidt's Colonels.

Sophomore Bill Slavoski appears to have nailed down the field general job for Wilkes in the final two games. Slavoski has gone to the air 79 times for 35 completions and 426 yards.

Juniors Larry Tarutis and Paul Wengen rank one-two in the receiving department with 12 and 11 respectively. Larry is the Colonels likely candidate on the long bomb while Wengen is best on the short patterns. Sophomore Robbie Irwin, coming off a slight shoulder separation, will be back in uniform today after missing play at Susquehanna.

TONY COUTO

Junior Ed "Dinger" Murray and sophomore Ed D'Amico, both high school all-scholastics at Coughlin and Valley West, rank a solid one-two in the Colonels ground stable with 344 and 211 yards. Rapidly developing as a topnotch kick returner is yearling David Brace, who went 49 yards for a score in the Blue and Gold's only touchdown in Selinsgrove.

Wilkes has a bona-fide post-season honors candidate in interior linebacker Tony Couto, who leads the Colonel defense with 57 first hits and 27 assists. Couto has blocked two punts and has also two fumble recoveries to his credit. Couto, who chimes in at 6-0, 195 pounds, is a graduate of Allentown Central Catholic and also spent a year with former Wilkes grid great Marv Antinnes at Wyoming Seminary.

Meet The Indians

Juniata College, one hundred years young last spring, is an independent, liberal arts institution of 11-to-1200 students. Some 93 percent of the student body resides on a spacious hundred-acre campus, set in the picturesque Juniata Valley in Huntingdon. Juniata's eighth president, Dr. Frederick M. Binder, assumed office last fall, having left a similar post at Whittier College.

Juniata was established by several members of the Church of the Brethren, who had in mind a normal school that would — by stages — attain full college status. In the year the telephone and organized baseball were born, Juniata began with one teacher, one cramped room, and three students.

In 1878, the school became the Brethren's Normal College, and in 1894, when future Governor Martin Grove Brumbaugh became its third president, the college was named for the final time "Juniata," the Indian word for the river nearby.

Classes were moved to the present campus in 1879, when Founders Hall was completed. Since that time, the physical plant has grown to include some 27 buildings, and the college has acquired the 170-acre Baker-Henry Nature Preserve, a 55-acre recreational site on nearby Raystown Lake, and a 400-acre environmental studies field station. The latter facility, encompassing a complete watershed, offers students and the area alike one of the most unique opportunities in environmental science in the nation. It, too, lies on Raystown Lake, the largest lake in Pennsylvania.

Juniata's innovative curriculum, introduced in 1971, emphasizes flexibility and stresses individual responsibility. A "program of emphasis" replaces the traditional "major," allowing students to tailor their academic programs to their own goals and needs. Owing partly to its Church of the Brethren heritage, Juniata's chief concern is with individual development, social responsibility, and community service — now and in the future.

From humble origins, then, Juniata has risen to a place of prominence in higher education. Three recent studies have ranked it highly in percentage of graduates earning doctoral degrees. One, in fact, ranked Juniata 24th in the nation, and none of the studies included professional degrees. Juniata's national reputation, however, is probably strongest in the pre-medical field.

Chuck Knox, a 1954 Juniata graduate, now head coach of the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, had this to say about Juniata in receiving a recent Achievement Award: "The attitude was that the school was there to help make the students as successful as it possibly could. The professors and everyone right down the line knew everyone else. I thought this concept unique, and we've carried it over with everything we try as coaches with the Rams. Our sole responsibility is to make our players as successful as we possibly can. This concept, with small classes and close relationships, remains peculiar to the small, liberal arts college."

The Wilkes College Football Parent's Club

For ten years the Wilkes College Football Parent's Club has played an intricate role in the success of the Colonel football program.

For starters the Parent's Club, organized in 1967, solicits advertisement and boosters for the school's extensive 32-page game brochure, which was judged by CoSIDA in 1975 as one of the leading periodicals of its type in the country.

Under the direction of club president Bill Horan the group has sold bumper stickers and hats as well as other projects which aid in the spirit of the Wilkes grid program.

All proceeds gleaned from the various projects are turned back into Colonel football. Much of it is used for certain items not included in the school athletic budget but sorely needed by Coach Schmidt to keep pace with other colleges.

Some of the projects in the past have included six portable whirlpool baths, camera equipment, blocking sled, tackleomatic apparatus, telescopic goal posts, stereo equipment in the locker room, and an ice making machine. In addition the Parent's Club purchases practice knit hats for all the players each year and annually conducts an appreciation dinner for the team at the end of the season.

"Our job is a big and essential one," observed Parent's Club president Bill Horan. "Just the words of appreciation from the players and coaches has made it all worth it."

Coach Schmidt has plenty of praise for the auxiliary group. "In addition to their enthusiastic support at all the games, they have helped create a family atmosphere on the team. They do a heck of a job and we're really indebted to them for all their help."

Current officers of the organization in addition to Horan are: Len Tarutis, vice-president; Betty Tarutis, secretary; Kay Ratchford, treasurer and directors Bob Suppon, John Baron, Nick Ametrano, Art Hoover, and George Pawlush.

CHROMACOLOR II

The quality goes in before the name goes on.

The New Chevrolet

The handwriting was on the wall.

It clearly said that the time had come for a new kind of 6-passenger car. One that would use fuel and space more sparingly yet still provide the kind of room and ride you've found so comfortable and comforting in our popular full-size Chevys of the past.

The car is here.

It's called The New Chevrolet.

More head room

The New Chevrolet stands a little taller than last year's full-size Chevy, which perhaps explains why it looks so very proud in profile.

Inside, there's a little more clearance for heads and hats and hairdos, both in the back seat and up front.

A new acoustical ceiling helps keep things nice and quiet.

More leg room

We've increased the rear seat leg room by an inch in The Sedan (below) and by nearly two inches in The Coupe.

It will make a significant difference in riding comfort, especially on trips.

The straight-up styling of the car makes it easier to climb into and out of.

More trunk room

The trunk is truly enormous, more than a cubic foot bigger than last year, with a nice flat floor that makes it easy to arrange things.

It's one of many pleasant surprises awaiting you in The New Chevrolet.

More efficient

The New Chevrolet is, by design, a very lean but very strong automobile, with not a trace of flab anywhere on its beautiful body, chassis or frame.

And it pays off at the gas pump.

In EPA tests, The New Chevrolet is rated at 22 mpg highway, 17 mpg city with the new standard Six, auto. trans. and 2.73 axle. Remember, EPA figures are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and available equipment. (In California, EPA mileage figures are lower.)

The New Chevrolet.

We made it right for the times without making it wrong for the people.

You're going to love it.

 Chevrolet

Now that's more like it.

The 1977 Caprice Classic Sedan.
