Wilkes University honored former administrator Paul A. O'Hop by naming after him the building at 263 S. River St.

Having served as vice president for business affairs and auxiliary enterprises, more than 20 campus buildings were purchased, constructed or renovated during Mr. O'Hop's tenure. The development of the Fenner Quadrangle helped achieve his vision of a traditional college campus setting.

Mr. O'Hop lives in Moscow with his wife, Florentine.

Wilkes University recently dedicated the building at 263 S. River St., Wilkes-Barre, as Paul A. O'Hop Hall in recognition of the long-time dedicated service to Wilkes that O'Hop, a Moscow resident, provided as vice president for business affairs and auxiliary enterprises. During his administrative tenure, more than 20 campus buildings were purchased, constructed or renovated. With the development of the Fenner Quadrangle in the center of the Wilkes campus, his vision of creating a tradi-
