first details:

The travel agent has given your some preliminary itineraries which I've faxed you.

Would appreciate knowing if you'll be alone or with companion.

You're in the ultra-5-star Peninsula Hotel.

Faxing you the rough—very rough—program. They'll supply a better program later.

~~Ignore my handwritten notes. on the program~~

You can ignore their "group" mealtimes unless something pleases you—they assured me you could eat wherever, whenever.

This we have discussed

They would appreciate working in a 15 video taping, to be put up on their website in perpetuity wherein a —they assure me—extremely skilled interviewer asks who and what inspired you to be a writer. I suggested she should be intimately familiar with Spooky Art and frame her questions accordingly. The taping would be private, you can suggest the time. I said in the green room before your presentation NOT good.

about 3-4 hrs after arrival 7pm at hotel Fri mntu

On 12 June, you are a panel of one (and upstaging some interesting people!!)—3:45 to 4pm. They have all your stage requirements—podium, high-backed barstool, audio feed in the green room (which you can also kill) You're extremely welcome to do 15 statement/reading/Q&A on foreign affairs—7 talk, 7 Q&A or 5 talk, 10 Q&A as you wish. Audience of 380—international graduate students plus some of the honorees.

When you're finished, you are FOLLOWED BY panel of 4—Bill Clinton, Shimon Peres (OR Ehud Barak—not certain yet which former PM), King Abdullah of Jordan and Tom Friedman discussing the MidEast. As the rather clever liaison said to me, "well, there's many heads and former heads of state—there's only ONE Norman Mailer.) Obviously, they could save you a superb audience seat if you wanted to see that one.
