2000 PRESIDENT'S REPORT

On the Cover

7:45 A.M.

Students hurry through the new Student Union Building on their way to their first classes of the morning. Amid the scent of coffee and toasted bagels comes the murmur of young people readying themselves for a busy day of biology labs and Spanish tests. Good-natured laughter bubbles from a table where some have stopped to vote for Homecoming King and Queen. A new day is dawning at Wilkes University.

TUESDAY,

Wilkes
September 26, 2000

his morning students bustle to their first classes — just as they have at Wilkes University for sixty-seven years. It's a typical day in the life of Wilkes University, where students are preparing for success in a rapidly changing world.

They're getting a traditional liberal arts and sciences background, supplemented with hands-on training, the latest technology, the principled application of knowledge, and an entrepreneurial spirit—everything they need to thrive in a global community. From our beginnings, Wilkes University has been an institution filled with people who have chosen to be part of an educational enterprise that puts the needs of students first.

Over the years, thousands of people—faculty, staff, administrators, students, alumni, community members, and others—have made generous contributions of money and time to bring us to this very day. The images you see here were captured on September 26, 2000, a day when faculty took on the joys and challenges of instruction and students learned lessons in and out of the classroom. Wilkes has many more days ahead, thanks largely to your continued support.

From our beginnings, Wilkes University has been an institution filled with people who have chosen to be part of an educational enterprise that puts the needs of students first.

Reflections After Seventeen Years

s I prepare to pass the mantle to the next president, I often pause to reflect on how different today's Wilkes University is from the academic institution that was Wilkes College when Jane and I first visited more than 17 years ago.

Together, we in this remarkable community of learners have elevated our beloved institution to a new level of excellence.

Perhaps most obvious are the physical improvements. Walking across the Fenner Quadrangle, presided over by the statue of our namesake statesman, John Wilkes, you'll find state-of-the-art facilities such as the Student Union Building that now serves as the focal point of campus activity. Taken together with the stately mansions we've preserved as reminders of our rich history, this is a campus as striking as that of any urban university in America.

Less obvious developments lie beneath the surface. Through generous contributions to the "Wilkes Tomorrow" and "Endow the Future" Capital Campaigns, the endowment has grown from $3 million to $26 million. Led by a generous and dedicated Board of Trustees, the University is now poised to achieve heightened financial strength.

But the heart of Wilkes is its gifted faculty and their students who, like their predecessors over nearly seventy years, bring an enthusiasm for learning and becoming successful, contributing members to society. The intimate contact between students and teachers—in small classes, on shared research projects, in co-op and clinical experiences, and in quiet after-class conversations—still constitutes the core of the Wilkes Experience.

The greatest reward of my years at Wilkes has been watching apprehensive, quiet new freshmen, many of whom were first-generation college students, emerge over four years into highly competent and confident adults. As Wilkes graduates, they begin their professional lives prepared to succeed among contemporaries from the top universities in America. I have been honored to meet with so many Wilkes alumni who are at the very top of their fields. Their resounding success provides evidence that “The Power of Independent Thinking,” is indeed the essential characteristic of a Wilkes education.

— President Brieseth

I have been privileged to serve as Wilkes’s president through these eventful years of growth. The chance to guide the University, while providing the kind of community stewardship that is expected of the Wilkes president, has fulfilled whatever youthful ambitions I harbored for leadership. The responsiveness of the students to what both Jane and I have attempted to contribute will warm our hearts for a long time to come. Their successes are our legacy.

Whenever I walk through the beautiful Wilkes campus, I will recall and be grateful anew to those who brought about this transformation over the past decade and a half. It has truly been a collaborative effort among my administrative colleagues, the trustees, alumni, students, and faculty — to whose ranks I hope to return after my sabbatical.

Jane and I have been privileged to serve such remarkable people and to help Wilkes University reach a new plateau of strength and distinction. We will be there in support of the new president, just as Dr. Robert Capin and Dr. Francis Michelini have been there for me. We are as certain as ever that Wilkes will scale new heights in the century ahead.

THE LEGACY:

A Spirit of Determination

oday at Wilkes University, students crisscross the Fenner Quadrangle as starlings congregate in the trees, preparing to fly south. Here at Wilkes, high academic standards and optimism prevail, just as they did at its inception in 1933.

The man some call the “Father of Wilkes,” Dr. Eugene Farley, gave the school the character that propels it into the future today. With rigid determination, Farley inspired his faculty and staff to do everything they could with the few resources they had during the early years as the college struggled through the Depression and World War II. Single-minded in his pursuit of the College’s best interests, he gathered quality people around him who were willing to make sacrifices for a higher purpose. “We are none of us striving for ourselves alone,”

Farley said, “but all of us are helping to build an atmosphere and tradition that will mean much to those who follow us.”

After Farley retired as president, his spirit of devotion to education carried on when the Wyoming Valley experienced one of the worst natural disasters in American history.

Hurricane Agnes flooded the Valley and the Wilkes campus. Once again, there was much to do with few resources. Former President Dr. Francis Michelini marshaled everyone to help out. In the early aftermath of the flood, the College reaffirmed our basic mission—learning was paramount. Thanks to the kind of determination that has always characterized Wilkes, the College’s first summer session reopened less than a week-and-a-half after the flood. Faculty, staff, alumni, and students together shoveled mud and scrubbed desks. After the flood, thanks to everyone’s hard work, Michelini’s inspiration, and the efforts of Dr. Robert Capin, Dean of Academic Affairs and Michelini’s successor to the presidency in 1975, Wilkes came back as a stronger institution than ever before.

This morning, as students all over campus take another sip of coffee and zip up their backpacks, the foundation of Wilkes University is secure as an institution of resourcefulness and high-spirited dedication to learning.

We are none of

ourselves alone

10:07 A.M.

Dr. Jerry Kucirka '67 teaches Freshman engineers computer literacy skills. Meanwhile, other students slam lockers shut and head to the weight room. Others meet friends at the Student Union for a late breakfast and to review History notes, while some study for an English test alone in their dorm rooms. Under the soft hum of fluorescent lights, students quietly scan the aisles of books in the Eugene S. Fairley Library. Rehearsing a scene in front of their drama professor, a troupe of acting students takes the stage in the Dorothy Dickson Darle Center for the Performing Arts. Everywhere there is bustle and intense concentration as students and faculty alike go about the business of learning.

THE COMMITMENT:

The Wisdom of Adaptability

oday at Wilkes the inspiring commitment to education continues. Everywhere there are signs of the quality contributions that thousands have made to bring us to where we stand today. In the last decade the campus itself has undergone a dramatic transformation. Everywhere we look we see new development: the Fenner Quadrangle, the Classroom/Office Building, and the Student Union.

Less visible but even more significant have been changes in the curriculum. For example, the College of Arts, Sciences, and Professional Studies was formed in 1998 to emphasize interdisciplinary learning. This action was taken after a yearlong study showed that students need a broad liberal arts background and a wide spectrum of courses to help them meet the demands of the information age. Today, the College has forty-two majors and programs, as well as numerous opportunities to prepare for professional challenges of the future. One recent example is the new Master's Degree in Teaching Technology, a program developed in response to pressing community need for technology education in elementary and secondary school classrooms. It is offered on-site to hundreds of teachers throughout the region.

Wilkes continues to strengthen offerings in the Health Sciences. Most recently, in response to increased student interest, the University founded the Nesbitt School of Pharmacy, through which students work to earn the Doctor of Pharmacy degree. Also, to help medically under-served regions, the highly successful Rural Physician Initiative continues to recruit exceptional high school students from rural or medically underserved areas who are interested in returning to their hometowns to practice family medicine. As Wilkes graduates, these students are accepted into some of the nation's most prestigious medical schools.

Whether we are educating the future's high quality teachers, doctors, or other professionals, it remains the firm belief and practice at Wilkes that disciplined and purposeful human efforts can reshape the world.

It remains the firm belief and practice at Wilkes that disciplined and
purposeful human efforts
can reshape the world.

The Eugene S. Farley Club

As the first President of Wilkes, Eugene S. Farley established ideals for strengthening character and goals for scholarly excellence. These qualities have been essential to the continued success of the University.

Taking the name of the person whose vitality still infuses the institution, the Eugene Farley Club is an essential part of Wilkes University. Support by club members provides the critical margin of assistance and insures that Wilkes upholds its position as an outstanding, comprehensive University.

Membership in the Eugene Farley Club is open each year to alumni parents, other friends of the University, and organizations on an annual basis and is renewable each year.

The Marts Society A Partnership With Wilkes

Alumni, friends, and benefactors have played a sustaining role in the future of the University and its students through bequests and other charitable estate planning techniques. The Marts Society recognizes the increasing number of donors participating in gift-planning programs to benefit Wilkes University.

Membership in The Marts Society is attained through commitment of any number of planned gifts, including bequests, charitable trusts, gift annuities, gifts of property with retained life estate, life insurance policies, and retirement plan accounts. Many of these gift vehicles allow donors to contribute cash or appreciated assets to benefit Wilkes while earning income during their lifetimes.

The Marts Society was named in honor of Dr. Arnaud C. and Anne McCartney Marts. Dr. Marts became President of Bucknell University in 1935 and was instrumental in maintaining Bucknell University Junior College in Wilkes-Barre during the Depression years. Because he believed in the service offered to the young people of the Wyoming Valley, Dr. Marts provided the support and leadership the fledgling institution needed to become self-sustaining. Dr. Marts established a trust in 1964, which provided a lifetime income for Mrs. Marts after his death. Upon her death in 1994, more than $2 million was gifted to the University, which helped to make possible the addition to campus of the Arnaud C. Marts Sports and Conference Center.

For more information on becoming a member of The Marts Society, please contact Brian D. Gill, Director of Development for Major and Planned Gifts.

I have been honored
to meet with so many Wilkes alumni who are at the very top of their fields. Their resounding success provides evidence that "The Power of Independent Thinking," is indeed the essential characteristic of a Wilkes education.

ALUMNI GIFTS

Here at Wilkes, we don't strive for ourselves alone, but to sustain and build upon
a tradition that means much to us today and will mean much to those who follow us.

Planting the "Seeds of Philanthropy"

A key project that "planted the seeds" of philanthropy at Wilkes this year was the Senior Class Gift Project. The senior class joined together and solicited pledges from their classmates totaling $8,854 for an arboretum that will be located at the old Church Hall location. This gift more than doubled any previous Senior Class Gift. A millennium time capsule was also buried near the arboretum site and will be exhumed during the classes' 50th reunion.

The campaign will help us further improve our facilities and infrastructure, increase our endowment, and bolster our operating resources.

Did we Miss Your Name?

If your name is not included in 1999-2000 President's Report, two things may have happened:

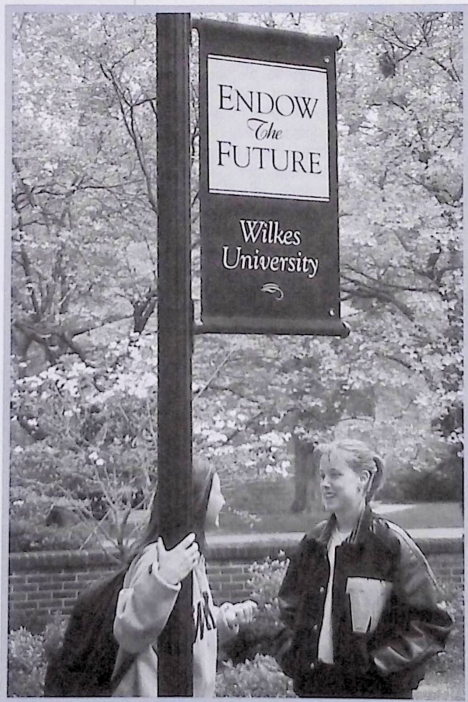

- 1) We made a mistake. We're sorry if this is the case, but in the processing of numerous gifts an error may occur.
- 2) You didn't make your gift during the 1999-2000 fiscal year. Our giving year runs from June 1 to May 31. Please check your records to see if the gift was made during that period.

Please send or e-mail all inquiries regarding omissions to:

Using the latest technology in one of the new pharmacy labs, Dr.

James Culhane, Professor of Pharmacology, walks students through an experiment in Stark Learning Center. While his students lay their foundations for lifelong learning and practice, others fill test tubes in a biochemistry lab, and another, miles away, follows a pediatrician into a hospital room to check on a patient. Meanwhile, in another part of

Stark Learning Center, Communications

students wind cables and put cameras

away after another successful student-run campus news broadcast. Outside, the afternoon sun breaks through clouds after a light shower. At Wilkes University, things are always changing for the better.

Located at the foothills of the Pocono Mountains, Wilkes
University is an independent institution of higher education dedicated to academic and intellectual excellence in the liberal arts, sciences and professional programs.
